PBF Announces 'Ask A VC' -- real answers to real questions by leading Venture Capitalists in US and Asia

HONOLULU--Pacific Business Forums was formed to provide new economy knowledge and access to thought leaders shaping new economies to Hawaii's business leaders and innovators. Now PBF embarks on facilitating and personalizing the process of accessing answers on acquiring capital for those seeking funding to grow their businesses. This free, value-added service, published in PBF's monthly newsletter, is provided to give entrepreneurs, and executives an opportunity submit a question or inquiry. The questions are then routed to a Venture Capitalist on the mainland or in Asian identified by PBF as the best source for the answer.

Each month PBF brings a dynamic leaders from the Mainland or Asia to the Islands to share insights into current and emerging trends, opportunities, and business practices across key industries and markets. Pacific Business Forums' Strategic Knowledge Series in Finance, Venture Capital, Technology, Law and New Media offers Hawaii executives valuable resources for moving their business forward in the global marketplace.

According to Lisa LaBonte, founder and COO, "PBF is the result of my belief that a serious platform for sharing strategic knowledge and empowering dynamic networking leads to valuable connections, opportunities, and economic prosperity."
